Treasury/Customs 00.001

System name: Acceptable Level of Competence. Negative Determination—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Personnel Management Division, U.S. Customs Service, Region I, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any employee of U.S. Customs Service Region I, who receives a negative determination regarding acceptable level of competence.

Categories of records in the system: Employee's name, social security number, position description, grade, and correspondence containing specific reasons for negative determination.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Five U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 or 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; such uses include general reference to the records by supervisors when considering appropriate actions to take with regard to the individuals; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in file folders and stored in locked file cabinets.

Retrievability: The records are filed by the individual's name.

V40232 DEC 2 75 XUM

Safeguards: Direct access is limited to the Director and five employees of the Personnel Division. In addition to being stored in locked cabinets, the area in which these records are stored is locked during non-duty hours and the building is guarded by uniformed security police.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained until the employee leaves the Customs Service.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Personnel Management Division, U.S. Customs Service, Region I, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

System name: Boarding Report—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Director, District Patrol, Suite 2800, Plaza Tower Bldg., 1001 Howard Ave., New Orleans, La. 70113; Dir., District Patrol Division, Rm. 213, International Trade Center, 250 N. Water Street, Mobile, AL 36602.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All suspect vessels and/or boats that information has been received on indicating unlawful or suspicious activity requiring a Customs search.

Categories of records in the system: Regional form giving name of vessel, registration number, boarding date, hailing port, documentation port, name and address of master and all other important information pertaining to suspect vessel or boat.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records maintained in standard Customs file folders in locked metal cabinets.

Retrievability: System is filed alphabetically by name of vessel owner.

Safeguards: File maintained in locked metal file cabinet, the keys of which are controlled by the custodian of the files. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access consistent with their positions, have been cleared by a full field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearance for critical sensitive positions. During non-working hours, the room housing the metal cabinet is locked.

Retention and disposal: Boarding Reports are normally destroyed after 3 years. On active cases, files could presumably be retained for duration of interest in vessel. Disposal is by means of shredding.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Routine uses of the records contained in the system are for the processing and evaluation of complaints and claims submitted in adverse actions, equal employment opportunity complaints, grievances, tort claims, criminal investigations, civil investigations, collection efforts, employment actions, and personnel actions; (g) Routine uses include reference for the processing of claims; continuous updating of the records necessary for the processing of claims; references to the files for the satisfaction of claims and closing cases by or against the United States Customs Service within Region V; submission of copies of records to the General Services Administration and the Justice Department for prosecution of criminal and civil violations and collections; submissions of copies of records to various branches of the United States Customs Service within Region V for the purposes of investigating and/or processing outstanding civil and criminal cases, collection cases, tort claims, and various personnel actions; (h) The purposes of such uses include the processing of all of the abovecited claims by the Office of the Regional Counsel and the preparation of legal memoranda to various department heads and other agencies to expedite the ordinary course of business of the United States Customs Service within and without Region V.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are currently maintained in alphabetical file folders which are filed in two steel filing cabinets in the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region V, and they are maintained under lock and key outside the ordinary business hours.

Retrievability: Records maintained by the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region V, are retrievable by identifying the character of the record (i.e., adverse action, grievance, tort claim, criminal case), then by comparable statute or regulation, and then alphabetically by name and identifier. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the alphabetical file folder within the steel filing cabinet.

Safeguards: (a) The steel filing cabinets described above are maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel within the U.S. Postal Service Building, Room T-13021, 701 Loyola Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana 70113. During nonworking hours the room in which the locked steel cabinets are located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards; (b) The policies and practices of the Office of the Regional Counsel regarding access controls are that only members of the staff of the Office of the Regional Counsel have access to the records maintained by the office.

Retention and disposal: (a) Records collected by this office are currently retained on a permanent basis as the office has only been in operation since August 1973; (b) Individual records are not disposed of by the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region V, and are simply placed into a further file of closed cases by category as stated above, and within each category by name. However, when applicable, this office will comply with appropriate disposal regulations whereby the oldest closed cases will be forwarded to the Federal Records Center in accordance with the Treasury Records Control Manual.

System manager(s) and address: The agency official responsible for the system of records maintained by the Office of the Regional Counsel is the Regional Counsel, Region V, United States Customs Service, Room T-13021, 701 Loyola Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana 70113.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner, U.S. Customs Service, Room T-13036, 701 Loyola Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana 70113 (the region in which the records are located), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity; and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to five thousand dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The categories of sources of records in this system are the individual himself and files compiled by the United States Customs Services by using employers, other government agency resources, financial institutions, educational institutions attended, and previous employers.

Additional information in these files is also derived from reports of investigation regarding the enforcement of civil or criminal statutes, administrative proceedings regarding disciplinary action taken against Customs Service employees, equal opportunity complaints, investigations of tort claims, the processing of inter-office memoranda information requested under the Freedom of Information Act, and the investigation regarding the collection of debts due the Government.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals (Sources) supplying confidential information to the U.S. Customs Service, Office of Investigations.

Categories of records in the system: This system contains some or all of the following information: name (actual or assumed), source (identifying) number, date number assigned, address, citizenship, date and place of birth, physical description, photograph, Social Security number, FBI number, passport number, Customs Form 4621 documenting information received from confidential source, amount and date of monetary payment made to source for information supplied, criminal record, copy of driver's license, and copy of alien registration card.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; 19 U.S.C. 2072, Title 19, United States Code; Title 18, United States Code.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: This information is primarily for the exclusive internal use of authorized employees of the Office of Investigations in connection with civil and criminal investigations and in connection with payments made for information received. Stringent controls are placed upon access to the files, even among Office of Investigations personal. In extremely rare and unusual situations, information with full source concurrence may be supplied to such organizations as Federal, state, and/or other law enforcement or prosecutorial agencies as the demands of law or justice might require.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Data is stored in a metal storage cabinet which remains locked except when momentarily opened for filing purposes.

Retrievability: The name of each source is filed in both alphabetical order and by location of the submitting office.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal cabinets with government approved locks, the metal files are located in a closely watched room of the Office of Investigations. Personnel maintaining the files are selected for their reliability, among other qualities, and afforded access only after having been cleared by a full field investigation. During non-working hours the room in which the records are located is locked and access to the building is controlled by uniformed security guards.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite retention periods have been established for all records contained in the file. When a file no longer has any utility it is destroyed by either shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Commissioner, Office of Investigations, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 3106, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.054

System name: Confidential Statements of Employment and Financial Interests—Treasury/Customs.

Treasury/Customs 00.058

System name: Cooperating Individual Files—Treasury/Customs.

System location: These files are located in regional and local Customs Patrol Offices within the United States. See Customs Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons providing confidential information to the U.S. Customs Patrol Division.

Categories of records in the system: These records include: assumed names; actual names; code numbers; addresses; telephone numbers; physical descriptions; miscellaneous identifying numbers such as Social Security numbers, driver's license number, etc.; date individual's record was established; amount and date of reward paid for information supplied.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information in this system is used primarily by the Customs Patrol Officer who receives confidential information for the purpose of detecting and apprehending suspected violators of Customs and related laws, and for the purpose of processing the payment of rewards for information received. Disclosure may be made only in extremely rare and unusual situations when demands of law or justice require that information be supplied to such organizations as Federal, state and/or other agencies.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All files and indices relating to cooperating individuals are stored in metal file cabinets secured with combination locks in a government secured building.

Retrievability: The name of each cooperating individual is filed in alphabetical order by assumed name and by actual name. The indices are maintained in the same alphabetical order and are also cross-referenced by the Patrol Division alpha numeric code number. All other indentifying data is used for verification of identity rather than method of retrieval.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal cabinets with government approved locks, the metal files are kept locked when not in use and located in a closely watched room of the Patrol Division. Personnel maintaining the files are selected for their reliability among other qualities, and they are afforded access only after having been cleared by a full field investigation. The files are given the same treatment as material classified as Secret. During duty hours, Patrol Division personnel maintain visual control and during off-duty hours the area containing the files is locked.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite retention periods have been established for almost all records contained in the file. When a file no longer has any utility, it is destroyed by either shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address: The Regional Patrol Director in Regional Customs Patrol Offices; the District Patrol Director in District Patrol Offices; and the Supervisory Customs Patrol Officer in suboffices of District Customs Patrol. See Customs Appendix A.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) To gather information to prove or disprove complainant's allegation and to resolve complaint informally, if possible; (b) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (c) Disclosure required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (d) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in a locked metal file cabinet drawer.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified on the alphabetical file folder within the metal file drawer.

Safeguards: The metal file cabinet described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer. During non-working hours the office area is locked and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer adequate local storage space at which time they are transferred to the Federal Records Center at Ft. Worth, Texas.

System manager(s) and address: Equal Employment Opportunity Officer, U.S. Customs Service, Region VI, 500 Dallas Street, Suite 1240, Houston, Texas 77002.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, 1301 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the receipt of a complaint by an employee. Additional information may be obtained from the employee's official personnel file and inquiries concerning the specific complaint.

Categories of records in the system: Court pleadings, litigation report requests and responses thereto, reports of investigations, internal Customs Service memoranda summarizing or relating to the matter in controversy and other background information relating to the subject matter or origin of litigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 28 U.S.C. 2676, 19 U.S.C. 1603, 28 U.S.C. 2671 et. seq.; 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Information contained in this file is provided as a routine use to the Department of Justice to assist that department in representing the interest of the Government, the agency or officer involved in the litigation, or to other agencies involved in the same or similar litigations. Files are often channeled through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the plaintiff in a proceeding against the U.S. Government, Customs Service, and/or employee, or by the name of the defendant in proceedings brought by the government. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal file drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX, at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Services Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602, in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the receipt of a litigation report request from the Department of Justice which is channeled through the Treasury Department, or with the receipt of a court pleading from one of the members of the U.S. Customs Service. Information in this file is derived from reports of investigations regarding the enforcement of civil or criminal statutes, administrative proceedings regarding disciplinary action taken against Customs Service employees, equal opportunity complaints, denials of tort claims plus tort claim information, denials of information under the Freedom of Information Act request, and the collection of debts due the Government.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Credit Card File—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Logistics Management Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 1415, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Headquarters Customs Service Employees to whom national gasoline credit cards and Hertz and Avis automobile rental cards have been issued.

Categories of records in the system: Credit card numbers, names, and signatures of employees to whom credit cards have been issued, and the date of issuance.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Such duties may include: maintaining an inventory of gasoline credit cards and automobile rental cards which are assigned to high level Customs Service officials or which are issued on a one transaction basis to other Customs Service officials or employees for their use in connection with the performance of their official duties; ensuring accountability for the cards issued; and providing a means for collecting issued cards when they are no longer needed by the officers or employees to whom they were issued; (b) Disclosure required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The information in this system is contained on index cards which are placed in a locked metal file cabinet within one office.

Retrievability: A portion of the index cards are identified by the name of the person to whom the credit card was issued in the case of credit cards which have been permanently assigned to higher level Customs Service officers and such index cards are filed alphabetically. The remainder of the index cards relate to credit cards which are issued to Customs Service officers or employees on a one transaction basis, and these index cards are filed by the applicable credit card number.

Safeguards: The metal cabinet in which the index cards are placed is locked, and the room in which the metal cabinet is located is locked during non-working hours. The building is guarded by uniformed security police, and only authorized persons are permitted in the building.

Retention and disposal: Index cards filed alphabetically by name are retained during the period that the officials named thereon are in possession of the credit cards, and these index cards are disposed of when the officials are no longer in possession of the credit cards. Index cards filed by credit card number are retained until all signature lines have been used, at which time these index cards are discarded.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Licensed customhouse brokers.

Categories of records in the system: Internal Customs Service memoranda and related material regarding proposed administrative disciplinary action against customhouse brokers for violation of the regulations governing the conduct of their business.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 1641; 19 CFR Part 111; 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552). (c) In order to carry out the authority to discipline customhouse brokers for violation of regulations promulgated pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 1641, information in this file is used to evaluate reported derelictions and to recommend to the Commissioner of Customs that disciplinary action be initiated or to recommend that such action not be taken. In addition, information in these files is used to prepare written reprimands issued to brokers and to prepare proposed charges in connection with recommendations that proceedings be held looking toward the suspension or revocation of brokers' licenses. Information in these files is also used in connection with administrative proceedings looking toward the suspension or revocation of licenses. (d) In addition, information contained in these files is provided to the Department of Justice for its use in connection with appeals from orders resulting in the suspension or revocation of licenses. (e) The information may be furnished to other Government agencies which have an interest in the situations that led to the disciplinary action, or in the broker.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the customhouse broker and in the alphabetical file folder within the metal container by the name of the customhouse broker.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Chief Counsel within the Customs Service Building. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Customhouse broker files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer any space available for them within the metal container, at which time the oldest files are transferred to the Federal Record Center.

System manager(s) and address: Chief Counsel, Room 3305, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552). (c) In order to carry out the authority to discipline customhouse brokers for violation of regulations promulgated pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 1641, information in this file is used to recommend to the Commissioner of Customs that disciplinary action be initiated or to recommend that it used to prepare written reprimands issued to brokers and to prepare proposed charges in connection with recommendations that proceedings be held looking toward the suspension or revocation of brokers' licenses. Information in these files is also used in connection with administrative proceedings looking toward the suspension or revocation of licenses. (d) In addition, information contained in these files is provided to the Department of Justice for its use in connection with appeals from orders resulting in the suspension or revocation of licenses. (e) The information may be furnished to other Government agencies which have an interest in the situations that led to the disciplinary action, or in the broker.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are maintained in file folders in drawers and metal file cabinets.

Retrievability: The records are filed either alphabetically or chronologically with a cross index by name.

Safeguards: Offices in which the records are maintained are locked during non-working hours. Office buildings are locked and/or patrolled by uniform guards during non-working hours.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained either indefinitely or as long as the customhouse broker retains an active license.

System manager(s) and address: Customs Regional commissioners, district directors, and port directors.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: Information contained in the license applications, references as to good character and integrity of the applicant, reports of investigations on applications and disciplinary action, local credit reporting services, Customs audit reports and court records.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Customhouse Brokers Records (Headquarters)—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Entry and Licensing Branch, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 2335, 1201 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Citizens of the United States, 21 years of age or older, who have been granted individual customhouse brokers' licenses for specific U.S. Customs Districts and such individuals who have applied for an individual broker's license which have been denied for cause other than failure to pass the qualifying individual customhouse brokers' license examination.

Categories of records in the system: The records system contains executed individual customhouse brokers' license application forms, reports of investigation concerning individual broker applicants, transmittal letters, and general correspondence corroborative of information disclosed in an individual's license application or report of investigation as to the applicant's character and business integrity. The records system also contains information relating to actual or proposed disciplinary action against licensed customhouse brokers.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; 19 U.S.C. 1641, 19 CFR Part III.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Such uses would include the processing of individual applications, verification and updating of names, addresses, place of employment and other information in the records, review of records to assure compliance with regulatory requirements regarding duties and obligations of customhouse brokers, review of records to decide whether to approve the use of trade or fictitious brokers' names, and review of files to determine that partnerships or corporations licensed as customhouse brokers have not less than two officers or members licensed as individual brokers; (b) Disclosure required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or order issued pursuant thereto. Such uses would include referring records to the Federal Maritime Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, the office of an appropriate U.S. Attorney or other Federal agency. For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each file is kept in an alphabetical file folder in metal file cabinets.

Retrievability: Each file is indexed in a card file system by alphabetical name and Customs district where located. Records are retrieved alphabetically by reference to the card file index, or by license certificate number assigned to a broker upon the granting and issuing of a customhouse broker's license. Cancelled brokers' records are maintained in cancelled files arranged alphabetically.

Safeguards: Direct access to the files is generally limited to Customs employees assigned to processing and reviewing customhouse brokers' license applications. During non-working hours the offices are locked and the building is guarded by security police.

Retention and disposal: Cancelled customhouse brokers' records are retained in cancelled files and used for precedent purposes. The records are maintained indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Entry and Licensing Branch, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 2333, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requestor will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requestor shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature. If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requestor asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requestor will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requestor shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requestor asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: Information in the records is obtained from the license applications of the individual customhouse brokers, references as to good character and integrity of the applicant, reports of investigations by Customs regarding applications for licenses and disciplinary action responses to posted notices of

(f) Information contained in this file is used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining whether to recommend granting or denial of the request made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act. Litigation regarding the Freedom of information request will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice and the appellate level before this step would require information to be disclosed to the Department of the Treasury. Information disclosed to the Department of Justice is often routed through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the Freedom of Information Act request. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Service Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602, in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Custom Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Such uses would include reference to the files for information as to prior violations and ongoing investigations and cases. (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. Such uses would include referring records to the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Transportation, the appropriate U.S. Attorney and other Federal agencies for recommendations and enforcement of fines, penalties and forfeiture cases.

For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are maintained in folders in file cabinets and safes.

Retrievability: The records are filed either by the name of the individual or chronologically with a cross reference index by the name of the individual.

Safeguards: During non-working hours, the records are maintained in locked rooms, locked buildings and buildings guarded by uniform guards.

Retention and disposal: The records are retained for three to five years after which they are either destroyed or forwarded to the Federal Records Center.

System manager(s) and address: District Directors of Customs (See Customs Appendix A).

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: Information and representations supplied by importers, brokers and other agents pursuant to the entry and processing of merchandise or in the clearing of individuals or baggage through Customs. Information also includes information gathered pursuant to Customs investigations of suspected of actual violations of Customs and related laws and regulations and recommendations and information supplied by other agencies.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

System name: Fines, Penalties and Forfeiture Records (Headquarters)—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Penalties Branch, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 2340, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Records are maintained on persons who have been administratively charged with violating Customs and related laws and regulations and on persons who have applied for awards of compensation for providing information regarding such violations.

Categories of records in the system: Entry documentation, notices, investigative and other reports, memoranda of information received, petitions, recommendations, referrals and dispositions of fines, penalties and forfeiture cases and applications for awards of compensation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended. 19 U.S.C. 66, 1618, 1624; 19 CFR Parts 171 and 172.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Such uses include the processing and disposition of fines, penalties and forfeiture cases pursuant to 19 CFR Parts 171 and 172 and reference to the records for information as to prior violations and ongoing investigations. (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. Such uses would include referring records to the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Transportation and other Federal agencies for recommendations on the administration of fines, penalties and forfeiture cases. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are kept in file cabinets in the central file room of the Entry Procedures and Penalties Division at U.S. Customs Service Headquarters.

Retrievability: The records are filed chronologically with a case number given to each file. The records are retrievable by means of an alphabetical card index system by names of individuals charged with a violation.

Safeguards: The records are maintained in the U.S. Customs Service Headquarters building which is guarded by security police. During non-working hours, the central file room is locked and the building is guarded by security police.

Retention and disposal: The records are generally retained for five years after the close of the case. The records are then forwarded to the Federal Records Center.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Penalties Branch, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 2340, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: Information and representations supplied by importers, brokers and other agents pursuant to the entry and processing of merchandise or in the clearing of individuals or baggage through Customs. Information also includes information gathered pursuant to Customs investigations of suspected or actual violations of Customs and related laws and regulations and recommendations and information supplied by other agencies.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.101

System name: Fines, Penalty, and Forfeiture (FP&F) Records System—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Regional Counsel, U.S. Customs Service, Region IX, 55 E. Monroe Street, Room 1417, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons seeking relief from fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred for alleged violations of the laws enforced by the United States Customs Service, and/or restoration of proceeds from the sale of seized and forfeited property.

Categories of records in the system: Statement from individual explaining circumstances justifying relief sought and history of the fine, penalty, forfeiture or seizure involved.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; 19 CFR part 171 and 172.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service, the Department of the Treasury and the Department of Justice, who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. (f) Information contained in these files is routinely used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining and resolving legal issues, in denying or granting the petition and possibly in litigation. Litigation will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice, and the information is often channeled through the Department of Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the petition for relief. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX, at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes with metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Services Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602 in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of Customs, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603 or the Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Customs Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates either with the receipt of any correspondence indicating that relief is desired or any notice from within the Customs Service that a fine or penalty is to be assessed. Further information in this file is derived from investigatory files and other information submitted by the petitioner and will include information from: informers, Customs employees, private parties, corporations, other Governmental agencies, state, local and Federal, credit bureaus, Seizure Reports (Customs Form 5955A, Customs Form 151) foreign countries, officials of foreign countries, citizens of foreign countries.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Immediate Delivery Record Cards are filed alphabetically in an unlocked metal file cabinet.

Retrievability: Each record card is filed alphabetically within the metal cabinet.

Safeguards: The metal cabinet described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Fine, Penalties and Forfeiture section in Room 102 of the Customhouse, Philadelphia; during non-working hours, access to the building and area of storage is controlled by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Immediate Delivery Record cards are retained at location 3 years; then destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: District Director of Customs, Room 102, U.S. Customhouse, 2nd & Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19106.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Custom Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the record may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Request by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: The information contained on these cards originates from liquidated damage cases instituted for failure to timely file entries and pay duty.

System name: Information and Investigative Reports from other Federal Agencies—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Director, District Patrol, Suite 2800 Plaza Tower Building, 1001 Howard Ave., New Orleans, Louisiana 70113. Dir., District Patrol Division, Rm. 213, International Trade Center 250 N. Water Street, Mobile, AL 36602.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals on whom information has been received indicating unlawful or suspicious activity.

Categories of records in the system: Name, address, phone number, place of business, associates, vessels or aircraft identified with; make, year, license number and registration of vehicles, area of activity, method of operation and other relevant and necessary information on individuals suspected of activity contrary to law. All information received from other federal agencies' investigative reports.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records maintained in standard Customs file folders in locked metal cabinets.

Retrievability: System indexed by identifying file number and manually retrieved.

Safeguards: File maintained in locked, metal file cabinet, the keys of which are controlled by the custodian of the files. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access, consistent with their positions, have been cleared by a full field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearance for critical sensitive positions. During nonworking hours, the room housing the metal cabinets is locked.

Retention and disposal: Memoranda of Information Received are normally destroyed after 3 years. On active cases or individuals, files could presumably be retained for duration of interest in individual. Disposal is by means of shredding. System name: Information Received File—Treasury/Customs.

System location: U.S. Customs Air Support Branch, Patrol Division PM-TUM, Homestead Air Force Base, Homestead, Florida 33030.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons who are believed to be involved in activities which constitute, or may develop into, possible violation of Customs and related laws.

Categories of records in the system: Internal Customs Service memoranda and related materials regarding the activities of individuals, vessels, or aircraft believed to be involved in acts which are contrary to Customs and related laws.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The information files are inserted in alphabetical and chronological file folders which are filed within a metal container.

Retrievability: A manual, master card index is maintained for the entire system. This index includes name and/or numerical identifier.

Safeguards: The information files and master card index are located within an office which is locked during non-working hours. The building is guarded by U.S. Air Force Military Police and only authorized persons are permitted in the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until such time that it has been determined that there is no longer a need for their existence, at which time the oldest files are destroyed under Customs supervision.

System manager(s) and address: Chief, Air Support Branch, U.S. Customs, Patrol Division, PM-TUM, Homestead Air Force Base, Homestead, Florida 33030.

System manager(s) and address: Area Director, New York Seaport Area, 6 World Trade Center, New York, New York 10048.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: Information submitted by individuals.

System name: Internal Security Records System—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Internal Security Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 5335, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229 and index card files each Regional Director (Internal Affairs) Office. See Customs Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Present and past employees, applicants for positions that require an investigation, and others that are the subject of an investigation.

Categories of records in the system: Security clearance records; background, tort claim, special inquiry, conduct, and equal employment opportunity investigations and other Customs related investigations including individuals involved in accidents under investigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Provide the proper authority within the Department of the Treasury with sufficient information to make a decision as to whether or not an applicant or employee is suitable for employment in a sensitive position, and to make a determination regarding a subject's loyalty; (d) When routine background investigation develops evidence of violations of law, case is referred to Investigative Branch; (e) Serves as a basis for granting access to classified information and material. When necessary, advise Government agencies and private industry of employees having security clearances; (f) To provide basis for disciplinary action, criminal prosecution establishing guilt or innocence, identifying procedural weaknesses, establishing liability in tort claim investigations, give information to Equal Employment Opportunity Division in EEO cases, provide information to appropriate officials, management and Congressmen; (g) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (h) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit; (i) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record contained in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to possible sources of information in connection with civil or criminal investigations or inquiries under circumstances where it is necessary to disclose certain information in order to pose a question to those sources.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Investigative records are maintained in file folders and stored in metal security cabinets and secured by government approved three-position, combination locks. Security clearance records are stored on magnetic tape with a manual back-up system.

Retrievability: A manual, master card index is maintained for the entire system. This index includes name and/or numerical identifier.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal containers with government approved, combination locks, the metal containers are located in locked rooms, the keys of which are controlled and issued to the custodians of the files. The security specialists and administrative personnel who maintain the files are selected for their experience and afforded access only after having been cleared by a full-field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearances for critical sensitive positions. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access consistent with their positions to employ and concur in the granting of security clearances have also been investigated prior to filling critical-sensitive positions.

Retention and disposal: With exception of tort claim investigations, the file records are maintained as long as the subject of the investigation is employed by the U.S. Customs Service and for 1 year after the subject terminates employment. The files are then transferred to the Federal Records Center.

Tort Claim investigations are retained for 5 years after the close of the investigation and then destroyed. Once files are transferred, they are retained for the following periods of time by the Federal Records Center and then destroyed: Background investigations—25 years, Conduct and special inquiry investigations—15 years, Equal Employment Opportunity investigations—10 years.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Internal Security Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 5335, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties which may include the administration, investigation, enforcement and prosecution of civil and criminal Customs and related laws; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Disclosure may be made to any civil or criminal law enforcement authorities, whether Federal, state, local or foreign; (d) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigation or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses; if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit; (f) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record contained in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to possible sources of information in connection with civil or criminal investigations or inquiries under circumstances where it is necessary to disclose certain information in order to pose a question to those sources.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in both hard copy files and on microfiche which are placed in locked metal containers.

Retrievability: The record system is indexed on 3 x 5 file cards by the individual's name and/or identification number and by the investigative case numbers to which the information relates. The hard copy and microfiche records are retrieved by means of the investigative case numbers.

Safeguards: All records are held in steel cabinets and are maintained according to the requirements of the United States Customs Records Manual and the United States Customs Security Manual. Access is limited by visual controls and/or a lock system. During normal working hours, files are either attended by responsible Office of Investigations employees or the file area is restricted. The office in which the records are located is locked during non-working hours and the building is patrolled by uniformed security guards.

Retention and disposal: The index cards are retained indefinitely. The hard copy and microfiche records are retained for one year or more depending on the subject matter to which they relate and are then either destroyed or transferred to the appropriate Federal Record Center, all in accordance with standard Customs Service record retention and disposal procedures.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Commissioner, Office of Investigations, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, Room 3106, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20229.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Information contained in this file is provided as a routine use to the Department of Justice to assist that Department in representing the interests of the Government, the agency or officer or employee involved in the litigation, and may be provided to other agencies involved in same or similar litigation.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the litigation against the Government, agency, officer or employee or by the name of the person against whom the Government initiated the litigation. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the alphabetical file folder within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Chief Counsel within the Customs Service building. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer any space available for them within the metal container, at which time the oldest files are transferred to the Federal Record Center.

System manager(s) and address: Chief Counsel, Room 3305, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the receipt of a litigation report request from the Department of Justice which results in a written report to that Department regarding the facts of the particular case. Information in this file may also be derived from reports of investigation regarding the enforcement of civil or criminal statutes, administrative proceedings regarding disciplinary action taken against Customs Service employees, equal opportunity complaints, denials of tort claims, denials of information requested under the Freedom of Information Act, and the collection of debts due the Government.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.159

System name: Notification of Personnel Management Division when an employee is placed under investigation by the Office of Internal Affairs—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Personnel Management Division, 500 Dallas Street, Houston, Texas 77002.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Customs employees who are suspected of misconduct.

Categories of records in the system: A written or telephonic notification made by the Office of Internal Affairs that an investigation has been opened on an individual employee.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165; Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Notification serves to notify certain Personnel Management Division employees of the investigation to assure compliance with Chapter 751 of the Customs Personnel Manual which precludes the processing of certain personnel actions while employees are under investigation. Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Notifications provided by the Office of Internal Affairs are maintained in a file folder and stored in a metal security cabinet equipped with a lock.

Retrievability: The file contains the name of the employee; therefore retrievability is by the individual's name.

Safeguards: A metal container, described above, is maintained within the area assigned to Personnel Management in the One Allen Center Building. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal container is kept is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: The name file is retained until notification has been received that the investigation has been cancelled or on receipt of a report of investigation from the Office of Internal Affairs.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Personnel Management Division, 500 Dallas Street, Houston, Texas 77002.

Record source categories: The only source of notification that an employee has been placed under investigation is the Regional Director, Internal Affairs.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons employed by the Treasury Department, Customs Service who either initiate a grievance, discrimination complaint, an unfair labor practice complaint against the U.S. Customs Service and officer or employee therof, or have a disciplinary or other adverse action initiated against him or her by the U.S. Customs Service in Region IX.

Categories of records in the system: The Personnel Action Records System contains information regarding employment history, i.e. basic personnel data, age, birth, marital status, address, phone number, general health, details of the incident leading to the grievance, discrimination complaint, disciplinary action, adverse action, or unfair labor practice complaint.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in the Personnel Action Records System of the United States Customs Service are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service, the Department of the Treasury, the Civil Service Commission, and the Department of Justice who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Information contained in these files is routinely used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining and resolving legal issues related to the personnel action involved, in preparing for, and representing management in, administrative hearings and administrative appeals, and providing information and assistance to U.S. Attorneys and the Department of Justice in litigation. Potential litigation or litigation will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice, and this information is often channeled through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the action against the Customs Service, or against whom it was initiated. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Service Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602 in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Record Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the initiation of any personnel action either by or against an employee. The information submitted by the employee is in the file as will be the information submitted by the employer if the action is initiated by the employer. Further information in this file is derived from both employee and employer information of an investigation made by the Office of Internal Affairs, investigation reports by the Office of Investigations, memoranda from the Civil Service Commission and possibly other agencies having employed the individual. Information could also be obtained form Customs employees, former Customs employees, private parties, corporations, confidential informers, credit bureaus, foreign countries or officials thereof, foreign citizens and any other source with information pertinent to the Personnel Action.

System name: Personnel Records System, Office of Regional Counsel, Region IX—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Regional Counsel, U.S. Customs Service, Region IX, 55 E. Monroe Street, Room 1417, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees directly reportable to the Regional Counsel of Customs, Region IX.

Categories of records in the system: Attendance records, annual and sick leave records, personal information for emergency situations, i.e., address, telephone number, nearest relative or friend, name and address.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Departmement Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in the Personnel Records System of the United States Customs Service are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Attendance and leave information contained in these files is routinely used by the secretarial personnel in preparing and making reports for pay purposes and other administrative reports. Supervisor uses information routinely in personnel management. Potential involvement of an employee in a disciplinary situation could require disclosure of the information to the Office of Internal Affairs, U.S. Customs Service, Chief Counsel, U.S. Customs Service, General Counsel, Treasury Department, and, also to the Department of Justice, if litigation occurs, and this information is channeled to that department through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each record is inserted in a folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each record is identified by the name of the employee of the Regional Counsel, Region IX, U.S. Customs Service and is filed alphabetically.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the records described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: The records are retained within the office of Regional Counsel with the exception of the original pay record for each employee which is submitted by-weekly to the Financial Management Dvision, Office of the Regional Commissioner, Region IX, and then forwarded to the Data Center in Detroit. After a three-year period, these records are destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

(e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (f) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Requests are maintained in a file folder and retained in a metal file cabinet.

Retrievability: By employee name.

Safeguards: A metal container is maintained within the area assigned to Personnel Management in the One Allen Center Building. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal container is kept is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: When reviews are made and a classification decision is reached, the case is considered closed and all related papers are disposed of in accordance with Records Disposition Schedule (3 years).

System manager(s) and address: Director, Personnel Management Division, 500 Dallas St., Houston, Texas 77002.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (see Customs Appendix A), or to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: The information to pursue requests for reclassification are obtained from concerned employees, supervisors, and knowledgeable managerial officials. Other information is obtained from appropriate Civil Service classification publications.

System name: Regulatory Audits of Customhouse Brokers—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Division of Regulatory Audit, Room 2114, United States Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20229, and at each of the nine regional offices of Regulatory Audit (see Customs Appendix A for addresses).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons licensed to conduct customhouse brokerage business pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 1641.

Categories of records in the system: Audit reports of customhouse broker accounts and records; correspondence regarding such reports; Congressional inquiries concerning customhouse broker and disposition made of such inquiries; names of officers of customhouse brokerage firms, license numbers and dates issued and district covered.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 1641; 19 CFR Part 111, 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552). (c) The information may be furnished to other government agencies which may have an interest in the broker. (d) Copies of broker audit reports will be retained in the office that performed the audit and at the headquarter's office. These reports will serve as a permanent file providing such essential information as the names and broker license number of company officers and other licensed employees. The reports will create a historical record of broker performance. The headquarter's file will also provide a means of evaluating the effectiveness of audits conducted by the regional audit staffs.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each customhouse broker file is inserted in alphabetical order by name of the firm in one of nine regional file folders which are filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal file cabinet. Duplicate copies are maintained at Customs Service Headquarters.

Retrievability: Each broker file is identified on alphabetical file locator cards which contain the name and address of the broker, the region and district in which he operates, and the number of the file drawer. In addition each regional office maintains their own alphabetical file, containing the above information, for broker activities within their region.

Safeguards: The files described above are maintained within the area assigned to the Regulatory Audit Division within the Customs Service Building. During non-working hours, the room in which the files are located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Customhouse broker files are retained indefinitely, or until there is no longer any space available for them at which time the oldest files are destroyed by burning or shredding.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Regulatory Audit Division, United States Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20229. Regional Director, Regulatory Audit Division at each of the nine regional offices (see Customs Appendix A for addresses).

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signatue and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates from audits conducted by the regional Regulatory Audit staff, of customhouse brokers' businesses. The audits may be supplemented with information furnished by the Office of the Chief Counsel, Office of Investigations, and the Office of Regulations and Rulings. These audits include examinations of brokers business records, including all financial books of accounts, check books, and financial statements. In the event that the broker is engaged in various business enterprises such as freight forwarding and insurance, and these financial records are commingled with those financial records relating to the brokerage business, it would be necessary to examine the other business records to complete the audit.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Contesting record procedures: See Access above.

Record source categories: Information is obtained from claimant and/or all individuals who have knowledge of the situation upon which the claim was filed.

System name: Tort Claim Records System—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Regional Counsel, U.S. Customs Service, Region IX, 55 E. Monroe Street, Room 1417, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Claimants under the Federal Tort Claim Act.

Categories of records in the system: Tort Claim, Standard Form 95 (claim for damage or injury) containing name, address, marital status, personal injury and property damage information, and insurance information; also correspondence, accident reports and investigatory records regarding the alleged damage or injury and possible medical information.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 28 U.S.C. 2671 et seq.; 5 U.S.C. 301; Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1950; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in the Tort Claim Records System of the United States Customs Service are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter; (f) Information contained in these files is routinely used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining and resolving legal issues, in recommending approval, denial, compromise or settlement of the claim, and possibly in litigation. Litigation will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice, and the information is often channeled through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the tort claim against the Customs Service, and officer or employee thereof. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel of Customs, Region IX at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Service Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602 in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Regional Counsel, Region IX, Room 1417, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603. The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the receipt of any correspondence indicating an alleged claim for damage or injury resulting from the conduct of the Government, U.S. Customs Service or an employee or officer of the U.S. Customs Service in Region IX. Further information in this file is derived from later correspondence from the individual, Standard Form 95 (Claim for Damage or Injury) filed by the claimant, other information submitted by the claimant, information submitted by Customs employee and/or his supervisors, and an investigation made by the Office of Internal Affairs or the Office of Investigations regarding the alleged claim or injury, as applicable. Information in these reports can be made from private parties, (witnesses), businesses, medical professionals, hospitals and other medical institutions.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

(d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. (f) Work hour information is used to develop reports required by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and the Congress on man-years and their distribution by activity. (g) Information from this system is disclosed on a routine basis to OMB and to the Congress for their use in evaluating the activities of Customs and to other government agencies where there is a need for them to have this information in the conduct of their official responsibilities.

For additonal routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Hard copy computer print-out kept in a loose leaf binder.

Retrievability: By the employee's name.

Safeguards: Access to these records is limited to employees of the Budget and Planning Division. The room in which the records are kept is locked during non-working hours. The building is patrolled by security police on a round-the-clock basis and only authorized persons are permitted in the building.

Retention and disposal: Annual reports showing cumulative data for the preceding year are kept indefinitely. Monthly reports showing cumulative data for the preceeding month are kept for two years and then disposed of as paper trash.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Budget and Planning Division, Office of Administration, U.S. Customs Service, Room 3415, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Treasury/ATF 00.006

System name: Internal Security Record System—Treasury/ATF.

System location: Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, 1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: (1) Present employees of the Bureau of ATF. (2) Former employees of the Bureau of ATF. (3) Applicants for employment.

Categories of records in the system: (1) Records containing investigative material compiled for law enforcement purposes including reports relating to: (a) conduct of employees, (b) integrity of employees. (2) Records containing investigative material compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment or access to classified information including reports relating to security clearances of employees.

Authority for maintenance of the system: (1) 18 U.S.C. 201 (2) E.O. 10450 (3) E.O. 11222

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: This system is used to assure the Bureau Director, the Department of the Treasury, and the public that the Bureau is taking strong and vigorous steps to maintain the highest standards of integrity, loyalty, conduct, and security among Bureau personnel. When a criminal investigation results in a compilation of information contained in this system, the information so compiled shall be transferred to the AT&F Criminal Investigation Report System and shall become a part of that system for all purposes of the Privacy Act of 1974.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contact, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation to an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to: officers and employees of the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties; personnel of Department of Justice and other agencies, Federal, state, and local, foreign and domestic, having prosecutive and civil law enforcement functions; attorneys, magistrates, and judges; and parole and probation authorities for the purpose of prosecuting, sentencing, and determining the parole and probation status of criminal offenders or suspected criminal offenders; personnel of other Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, foreign and domestic, for the purpose of developing information on subjects involved in Bureau criminal investigations and for assisting law enforcement agencies in the investigation and prosecution of violations of the criminal laws those agencies are responsible for enforcing; personnel of Federal, state and local governmental agencies, where such referral is considered reasonably necessary for the purpose of furthering Bureau efforts to investigate the activities of and apprehend criminal offenders and suspected criminal offenders; personnel of federal, state and local governmental agencies, foreign and domestic, where there is a showing of reasonable necessity to obtain such information to accomplish a valid law enforcement purpose; employees and officials of financial and commercial business firms and private individuals for identification purposes pertaining to actual or suspected criminal offenders where it is considered reasonably necessary for the purpose of furthering Bureau efforts to investigate the activities of and apprehend criminal offenders and suspected criminal offenders; defense attorneys under Discovery Procedures; members of the public, employees of other governmental agencies, or members of the news media (on a case by case basis where determination that such disclosure would be in accordance with guidelines set out under 28 C.F.R. Part 50.2; 5 U.S.C. 552, and 552a, and would not compromise enforcement of laws administered by Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms). For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Active records stored in file folders in security filing cabinets. Inactive records stored in file folders at Federal Records Center.

Retrievability: Records are retrievable by name.

Safeguards: Direct access restricted to personnel in Department of the Treasury in the performance of their duty. Transmitted to routine users on a need to know basis and to others upon verification of the substance and propriety of the request. Stored in lockable metal file cabinets in rooms locked during non-duty hours.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained in accordance with General Services Administration General Records Schedules Numbers 1 through 20 and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms records control schedules numbers 101 and 201 and disposed of by shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Director, Inspection, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, 1200 Pennsylvania Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: The Director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has determined this system of records to be exempt from compliance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (e) (4) (G).

Record access procedures: The Director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has determined this system of records to be exempt from compliance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a (e) (4) (H).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The purpose of this system is to determine suitability, eligibility or qualifications of individuals who are engaged or propose to engage in activities regulated by ATF; achieve compliance with laws under ATF's jurisdiction; assure full collection of revenue due from legal industries; eliminate commercial bribery, consumer deception and other improper trade practices in the distilled spirits, beer and wine industries; interact with Federal, state and local governmental agencies in the resolution of problems relating to industrial development, revenue protection, public health, ecology, and other areas of joint jurisdictional concern. When required or authorized by statute, regulation, or Executive Order, information in the record system is made available to members of the public or employees of other government agencies.

In the event that a record in this system indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, these records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. When an ATF criminal investigation results in compilation of information contained in this system of records, the information shall be transferred to the Treasury ATF—Criminal Investigation Report System and shall become part of that system for all purposes of the Privacy Act of 1974. A record in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to: Officers and employees of the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties; Federal, State or local regulatory or law enforcement agencies in the performance of their duties on a need to know basis; Members of the public, employees of other Governmental agencies, or members of the news media (on a case by case basis where determination that such disclosure would be in accordance with guidelines set forth under 28 C.F.R. Part 50.2; 5 U.S.C. 552 and 552a, and would not compromise enforcement of laws administered by Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms). For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Active records stored in file folders in filing cabinets; card forms in card filing cabinets; and on magnetic tapes or microfiche at IRS Service Centers, ATF Headquarters, or Department of the Treasury.

Retrievability: Records are retrievable by name, permit or license number, or by document locator number.

Safeguards: Direct access restricted to personnel in Department of Treasury in the performance of their duty. Transmitted to routine users on a need to know basis and others upon verification of the substance and propriety of the request. Stored in file cabinets in rooms locked during non—duty hours. Wagering records are maintained in safes or file cabinets which are locked at all times.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained in accordance with General Services Administration General Records Schedules numbers 1 through 20 and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Records Control Schedules numbers 101 and 201 and disposed of by shredding, burning or by degaussing.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Electronic media, paper and microfilm.

Retrievability: By name, and in some cases social security number.

Safeguards: Information is contained in secure buildings, Federal Records Centers, or in areas which are occupied by officers and responsible employees of the Bureau who are subject to the Bureau's personnel screening procedures and the Treasury Department Code of Conduct. Information stored in electronic media is safeguarded by automatic data processing security procedures in addition to physical security measures.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained in accordance with GSA and CSC retention schedules. All records are destroyed by incineration, maceration or shredding. Records in electronic media are electronically erased using accepted techniques.

System manager(s) and address: For Administrative records: Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th and New York Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226. For Personnel records: Director of Personnel, Bureau of the Public Debt, 13th and C Streets, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: Address Administrative inquiries and initial requests for correction of records to: Privacy Act Request, Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th and New York Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226, (202) 964-2427. Address Personnel inquiries and initial requests for correction of records to: Privacy Act Request, Director of Personnel, Bureau of the Public Debt, 13th and C Streets, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20226, (202) 964-7717; or Privacy Act Request, Personnel Officer, Savings Bond Operations Office, Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third Street, Parkersburg, West Virginia 26101, (304) 422-8551.

Record access procedures: Individuals who wish to request access to records relating to them or who wish to request correction of records they believe to be in error should submit such requests pursuant to the procedures set out below in compliance with the applicable regulations (31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C Sections 1.7 & 1.8; 31 CFR Part 323). Requests which do not comply fully with these procedures may result in noncompliance with the request but will be answered to the extent possible.

Requests for access to records: (1) All requests for access to records should be in writing, signed by the individual concerned, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, clearly indicate that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. The Bureau reserves the right to require additional verification of an individual's identity in certain cases. (2) The request must specify the Bureau system of records within which the desired records are located as well as the categories of records within the system. These categories are set out in the applicable system of records description. (3) Requests for records concerning a deceased or incapacitated individual should be accompanied by either evidence of the requester's appointment as legal representative of the individual or his estate or by a statement attesting that no such representative has been appointed and giving the nature of the relationship between the requester and the individual.

Requests for correction of records: (1) All requests by an individual for correction of records relating to him should be in writing, be signed by him, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) The request for correction should specify: (a) the dates of the prior correspondence had with the Bureau concerning the records in question, (b) the specific records alleged to be incorrect, (c) the correction requested, and (d) the reasons therefor as well as any available evidence in support of the request.

Appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records: (1) All appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records must be in writing, be signed by the individual involved, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that it is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) All appeals must, to be handled under the Privacy Act procedures, be delivered to the address set forth for submission of appeals within 35 days of the individual's receipt of the initial denial of the requested correction. (3) All appeals must specify: (a) the records to which the appeal relates, (b) the date of the initial request made for correction of the records, and (c) the date that initial denial of the request for correction was received. (4) All appeals must also specify the reasons for the requester's disagreement with the initial denial of correction and should furnish any applicable evidence available in support of his appeal.

Contesting record procedures: See notification and access.

Record source categories: Information on records in the system is furnished by the individuals, by creditors, by supervisors, medical personnel, other employees, or as the result of security investigations.

In addition, second-named coowners of Series G savings bonds.

Categories of records in the system: (1) Issuance: Records relating to registration, registers of issuance of securities and records of correspondence in connection with issuance of savings-type securities. (2) Holdings: Records documenting ownership, status, payments by date and account numbers, including inscription information; interest activity; correspondence in connection with notice of change of name and address, non-receipt of interest and over- and under-payments of interest; numerical registers of ownership. Such records include information relating to savings-type securities held in safekeeping in conjunction with the Department's program to deliver such securities to the owners or persons entitled. (3) Transactions (redemptions, payments and reissues): Records which include securities transaction requests; interest activity; legal papers supporting transactions, applications for disposition or payment of securities and/or interest thereon of deceased or incapacitated owners; records of retired securities; check payment records. (4) Claims: Records including correspondence concerning lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated savings-type securities, bonds of indemnity, legal documents supporting claims for relief and records of caveats entered. (5) Inquiries: Records of correspondence with individuals who have requested information concerning savings-type securities and/or interest thereon.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended (40 Stat. 288) and 5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Within the Department of the Treasury, the information contained in this system of records is routinely used in connection with the issuance of securities, the payment of interest thereon, processing of claims therefor, responding to inquiries thereon, processing of transactions therein and the redemption and retirement thereof. Users for these purposes are officials, authorized employees and agents of the Department for the purpose of administering the Public Debt of the United States. Information in this system is also routinely furnished to the Internal Revenue Service for use by officials and authorized employees for the purpose of facilitating collection of tax revenues by the United States. In addition to these uses within the Department, records concerning holdings are routinely disclosed outside the Department as follows: (1) To the next-of-kin, voluntary guardian, legal representative or successor in interest of a deceased or incapacitated owner of securities, and others entitled in connection with reissue, distribution or payment thereof; users for this purpose are as described for the purpose of assuring equitable and lawful disposition of securities and/or interest. (2) Information is routinely furnished, when appropriate, pertaining to securities to the United States Secret Service for inclusion in the National Crime Information Center of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to the Department of Justice and to other Federal agencies; users for this purpose are law enforcement officials, for the purpose of reducing monetary losses of the United States and to aid in law enforcement. (3) Information is routinely disclosed pertaining to holdings of securities, interest thereon and transactions therein to the Department of Justice in connection with lawsuits to which the Department is a party; and to Trustees in Bankruptcy; users are Federal officials for the purpose of carrying out their duties. (4) Information is routinely disclosed to the Veterans Administration and selected veterans publications in connection with attempts to locate owners, or their next of kin or persons otherwise entitled to bonds undeliverable and being held in safekeeping by the Department. (5) Information regarding records of holdings of securities registered in coownership form is routinely disclosed to either coowner upon request. Information regarding records of holdings for securities registered in beneficiary form ("P.O.D.") is routinely disclosed to the beneficiary named thereon provided acceptable proof of death of the registered owner is submitted. (Note: If the request for disclosure is made by the second-named coowner, or by a beneficiary the name or social security number of the first-named person must be furnished, except in the case of Series G savings bonds.) (6) Information regarding holdings is routinely disclosed to Members of Congress who inquire on behalf of constituents. (7) For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records in this system are stored in their original form in file cabinets, as information in electronic media or on microfilm.

Retrievability: Information can be retrieved alphabetically by name, bond serial numbers, or, in some cases, numerically by social security number. In the case of securities, except Series G savings bonds, registered in more than one name, information relating thereto can only be retrieved by the name or in some cases social security number of the first-named coowner.

Safeguards: Information is contained in secure buildings, Federal Records Centers, or in areas which are occupied by officers and responsible employees of either the Department who are subject to personnel screening procedures and the Treasury Department Code of Conduct, or by agents of the Department who are required by the Department to maintain proper control over records while in their custody. Additionally, since in most cases, numerous steps are involved in the retrieval process, unauthorized persons would be unable to retrieve information in a meaningful form. Information stored in electronic media is safeguarded by automatic data processing security procedures in addition to physical security measures.

Retention and disposal: Records of holdings are maintained permanently. Forms, documents and other legal papers which constitute the basis for transactions subsequent to original issue are maintained for such time as is necessary to protect the legal rights and interest of the U.S. Government and the persons affected, or otherwise until they are no longer historically significant. Other records are disposed of at varying intervals in accordance with records retention schedules reviewed and approved by the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration. All records are destroyed by shredding, incineration or maceration. Records in electronic media are electronically erased using accepted techniques.

System manager(s) and address: Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th St. and New York Ave., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to: Privacy Act Request, Assistant Commissioner of the Public Debt, Savings Bond Operations Office, 200 Third Street, Parkersburg, West Virginia 26101, (304) 422-8551. Inquiries should include the full name, social security number, address and security serial number(s), if known.

Record access procedures: Individuals who wish to request access to records relating to them or who wish to request correction of records they believe to be in error should submit such requests pursuant to the procedures set out below in compliance with the applicable regulations (31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C Sections 1.7 & 1.8; 31 CFR Part 323). Requests which do not comply fully with these procedures may result in noncompliance with the request but will be answered to the extent possible.

Requests for access to records: (1) All requests for access to records must be in writing, signed by the individual concerned, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, clearly indicate that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. The Bureau reserves the right to require additional verification of an individual's identity. (2) The request must specify the Bureau system of records within which the desired records are located as well as the categories of records within the system. These categories are set out in the applicable system of records description. (3) In the case of requests for information concerning holdings of securities, the type of security involved (e.g., Series E savings bond, Series H savings bond, savings note, retirement plan bond, etc.) must be specified. Additionally, the request should, to the extent possible, specify the approximate date of issue, serial number(s) and exact form of registration, including social security number and address. Requests which do not furnish all or some of the above information will be complied with to the extent possible but may be subject to the requirement that additional identificatory evidence be furnished. (4) Requests for information concerning records of holdings of securities except Series G savings bonds registered in coownership form must be accompanied by the name and, wherever possible, social security number of the first-named coowner. Requests for information concerning securities registered in beneficiary form must also be accompanied by the name and social security number of the owner thereof and, if made by the beneficiary, must be accompanied by proof of death of the registered owner. (5) Requests for records of holdings or other information concerning a deceased or incapacitated individual should be accompanied by either evidence of the requester's appointment as legal representative of the individual or his estate or by a statement attesting that no such representative has been appointed and giving the nature of the relationship between the requester and the individual.

Requests for correction of records: (1) All requests by an individual for correction of records relating to him should be in writing, be signed by him, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) The request for correction should specify: (a) the dates of the prior correspondence had with the Bureau concerning the records in question, (b) the specific records alleged to be incorrect,

(c) the correction requested, and (d) the reasons therefor, as well as any available evidence in support of the request.

Appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records: (1) All appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records must be in writing, be signed by the individual involved and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that it is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) All appeals must, to be handled under the Privacy Act procedures, be delivered to the address set forth for submission of appeals within 35 days of the individual's receipt of the initial denial of the requested correction. (3) All appeals must specify: (a) the records to which the appeal relates, (b) the date of the initial request made for correction of the records, and (c) the date that initial denial of the request for correction was received. (4) All appeals must also specify the reasons for the requestor's disagreement with the initial denial of correction and should furnish any applicable evidence available in support of his appeal.
